Every one who is interested in codliver-oil should consult this monograph, which places the latest results of investigation before the reader in the most explicit and clearest language. The second part of the book consists of a very complete dissertation on Chemistry, especially of the hydrocarbons, in which, incidentally, the modern theories of valences, molecular and atomic grouping, and stereochemistry are set forth in the light of recent research, and especially in relation to the methane derivatives, beginning with the hydrocarbons. The author has adopted a method of explaining the graphic formulae which is striking and original, and well devised for the purpose he has in view. This is the finest publication we have read through right up until now. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. Its been written in an remarkably easy way in fact it is only after i finished reading through this book by which basically altered me, affect the way i think.
