Soe. , Vol. V. , p. 269. ) Five of our State legislatures have moved for the introduction of the metric system by Congress; New Hampshire in 1859, Maine in 1860, Connecticut in 1861, Massachusetts in 1876, and Utah in 1896. Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey have required it to be taught in the primary schools. As regards progress of the metric system by private initiative, there is practically nothing to record, except in the field of pure science, where the metric system had driven out all others long before the governmental action of the different countries. But in practical life, and in applied science, technology, etc. , the metric system has never made any progress. It was adopted in 1868 by the American Watch Company of Waltham, Mass. , in the manufacture of watches; as it had been adopted years before, as an experiment, in one department of their factory, by the firm of Wm. Sellers and Co. , of Philadelphia. It has also been adopted by the American Watch Tool Company of the same place, and by the Solvay Process Company, of Syracuse, N. Y. I also hear that an English machine-shop adopted it about twenty years ago, and one in New Jersey. But apart from these instances, and perhaps a few similar ones which I have not stumbled upon, the metric system has gained no admittance whatever into the workings of daily life, in any country, not even after many...
