Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Social Equilibrium and Other Problems Ethical and Religious The essays collected in this volume present in various aspects the one question, How shall the modern man so adapt himself to the new conditions of his life as to keep the faith, hope, and charity of the older time, while he yields himself to the revelations of science and enthusiasms of progress? There will be found in the Social essays no discussion of the Labor Question, of Socialism, Nihilism or any of the burning questions which lie so near the surface of society to-day, but rather an attempt to look calmly at the deeper causes of unrest and disturbance. No specific remedies for social disorders have been suggested, because the first thing society needs is a comprehension of the causes of the evils which afflict it. In the Ethical and Religious essays, the general doctrine of evolution is taken for granted; and, with that for basis, various aspects of freedom and duty are discussed, in the confident belief that the old order may change into the new without shock of revolution. Great comfort and fresh enthusiasm will be the result, whenever the leaders of thought agree to say aloud, and to say together the things in which they agree, and consent for a time to keep quiet as to the things in regard to which they differ.
